Mrs. James Scott Passed Away at Toronto, March 7th

Had Resided Here with Husband Many Years Before
Leaving for Eastern Canada;
Was Formerly Active Member of United Church

A letter was received this week by Mr. and Mrs. J. Emerson from Mrs. J. C. Hodgson informing them of the death of the latter's mother, Mrs. James Scott, aged 83, on Tuesday, March 7, at her Toronto home.

Deceased is still well remembered among a host of friends despite the fact that it is now almost thirteen years since she and her late husband left Coleman for Eastern Canada.

Mrs. Scott was born near Belfast, Ireland. She came to Canada when a young woman and later married Mr. Scott in Ontario. The latter worked for the C.P.R. before becoming master mechanic at Lyle. In 1910 Mr. and Mrs. Scott came to Coleman where Mr. Scott was employed by International as a master mechanic. They resided here till 1931 when they left for Hamilton and later Toronto.

While here they were staunch supporters and active workers for the United Church. Mrs. Scott was a member of the church, Women's Missionary Society and Ladies Aid. In addition she was an active member of the L.O.B.A. She endeared herself to her many friends by her kindly disposition and was always ready and willing to help the needy.

Mr. Scott retired from work in 1931 and both he and Mrs. Scott were the guests of honor at various functions before their departure for eastern Canada. In 1936 Mr. Scott died at Toronto. Mrs. Scott had resided with her daughter, Mrs. J. C. Hodgson, at Toronto till her death on Tuesday, March 7. Her passing will be regretted by her many friends here.

The service was conducted by Rev. T. M. Murray of Owen Sound, Ont. who was the first minister of the Institutional church, in Coleman, in 1904.

Cameron school's Junior Red Cross raffled their rag doll on Tuesday afternoon, tickets having been sold on it for the past few weeks. The honor of making the draw was given John Tarcot in recognition of his splendid two dollars donation to the Red Cross. The lucky ticket was held by Mary Mayarchuk. $28 was realized through the sale of tickets and this will be given to Junior Red Cross.

Coleman Boys Starred in Hockey Series at Trail

Hudz and Slugg Score Goals
In Series; Trail Won Two Straight Games

Mike Hudz and Jimmy Slugg played starring roles for Edmonton's junior Canadians and Alberta representatives in the inter-provincial playoffs against the Trail juniors.

In the first game Hudz scored on an assist from Slugg. In the second game Slugg scored after thirty four seconds of the first period. That goal proved to be the only one scored by Canadians as they were defeated 6-1.

Canadians passed through Coleman on Wednesday afternoon enroute to Calgary where they stopped off a day.

TOWN TAX ARREARS AMOUNT TO $3,000

Town Solicitor Bannan
Re-Engaged; Lycka Case to be Aired in Court; Radio
Interference Again Discussed

Regular meeting of the council was held on Monday evening. Present Mayor Antrobus, Councillors Aboussafy, Cox, Lowe and Ramsay.

Questioning an item in the financial statement Councillor Ramsay was informed that the tax arrears in the town amounted to $3,000. This figure, it was added, was low compared to the arrears in the past. Councillors were of the opinion that the $3,000 arrears were much too high when compared to the work-in, conditions of to-day. Secretary was authorized to have a list of all persons in arrears ready for study by councillors at the next meeting.

John Crawford, provincial chief mines inspector, informed council that he would visit Coleman at the first opportunity.

Solicitor Bannan gave council a report on money collections from Tony Lycka during the past year. It was revealed that two sums of money were being held by the court and only ten dollars in actual cash had been received by Mr. Bannan. The case will be brought up in Lethbridge court on March 22. It is hoped at this case the judge will clearly define whether or not council may have free hand in endeavoring to collect all that is owing to the Town of Coleman by Lycka.

The Institute for the Blind made its annual appeal. It asked that each municipality donate 10c for each resident within the district. Secretary stated this would amount to $60. Council boosted its grant from the usual $10 to $15.

The local branch of the Canadian Red Cross asked for a donation and received $25, to aid in the local campaign.

Chief of Police Antle submitted his monthly report. It revealed that a young man was found to have had stolen property in his room when it was searched by police. He was given a $100 fine plus costs.

Cases of drunkenness and two small fires were given the attention of the police.

The two men who had helped with ashes in January were paid at the basic rate of 50c per hour plus bonus.

In discussing the re-appointment of Sam Bannan as town solicitor it was the opinion of the councillors that Mr. Bannan had been both fair and generous with council during 1943. His services had been called upon on numerous occasions and it was unanimously agreed to re-engage Mr.

Bannan at a yearly fee of $200. A sample of drinking water had been sent two weeks ago but no report had been received. During the Christmas season a bottle of soft drink had been sent to Edmonton for analysis. To-date no report had been received on its purity. Council will send a letter asking for a report on the soft drink sample.

Coleman Light & Water Co. will be asked to install lights in three places in town, one beside the houses facing the C.P.R. depot, one alongside the Mrs. R. Parker residence on Sixth street, and on mid-way around the bluff.

Radio interference is once again playing havoc in certain parts of the town. The relay box alongside the Italian Block on main street is thought to be causing some interference and Councillor Cox reported nerve racking interference in his part of the town on Fifth street. Council will ask Coleman Light & Water Co. if it will have members of its staff try to locate the trouble.

Once again the sidewalk in front of Pattinson's Hardware came up for discussion. Many complaints had been received during cold snowy weather regarding the danger of walking over this piece of concrete. Town Foreman Malanchuk will be sent to roughen the sidewalk and also some other parts of the street that are dangerous in winter weather.

PEE WEE HOCKEY NOTES

On Sunday, March 12, the four Pee Wee hockey teams played for the Red and White cup.

In the semi finals the Legion defeated Pattinson's 4-3 and Lions defeated Elks 2-1.

The final saw Lions defeat Elks by a 7-6 score after twenty minutes overtime. Competition was very keen and in winning the championship the Lions proved themselves just a little bit better than the other three teams.

Before the final game, two girls' teams, Spitfires and Blockbusters, displayed their skill. The Spitfires being the winners by a 2-0 count. This match provided much enjoyment and the hockey fans present agreed that the "weaker" sex were able to equal the performances of the boys.

Red Cross Drive Meeting With Good Support

Mines Not Yet Canvassed;
Canvassers Report Many Contributions From Business
Sections and Persons not
Associated With Mines

It had been hoped by Coleman Red Cross executive to have had the local campaign almost completed by the end of the week but it is doubtful now if this can be accomplished.

In canvassing the mines last year the miners' union had chosen their own canvassers. This year the union desires that mine officials be delegated to canvass the miners in both mines. Since this request was only relayed to secretary Jim Park at the beginning of the week it will be necessary to make other arrangements.

The Ladies canvassing the business section and those persons not connected with the mines report excellent results. The canvass by these ladies is incomplete and secretary Park has no official figures to release to the Press this week.

Coleman has set itself an objective of $2,000 and it requires every citizen to give a donation if the objective is to be reached. The town council on Monday evening donated $25.

Agricultural Workers

Agricultural workers must not remain in their employment after expiry date shown on their National Selective Service Permits. Generally speaking this date will be March 31, 1944. The regulations make it unlawful for an employer to retain in his employ or for an agricultural worker to remain in employment outside agriculture beyond the time authorized by his permit.

Where no expiry date appears on a permit issued to an agricultural worker, such permits are hereby cancelled as at March 31, 1944. In cases where employment of agricultural workers is allowed for a limited period without a permit their employment must be terminated not later than Mar. 31, 1944. Separation Notices, form NSS 120, must be completed for each agricultural worker whether he is engaged on a permit or not. If there is no expiry date on the permit or if the worker has been engaged without a permit, notice of separation is to be given on March 24, 1944.

In completing the notice of separation the workers last rural address is to be given (not his temporary boarding or rooming house address). On completion of this notice of separation the words "Agricultural Worker" are to be written across the face of the form, also the name of the Employer and Selective Service office which appears on the workers permit. The yellow copy of the notice of Separation is then to be sent immediately to the Employment and Selective Service Office of the area in which the man has been employed.

Congratulations are being extended to the Rippon rink this week on its winning of the McGillivray Cup, emblematic of the league championship. Rippon and Ledieu finished in a first place tie with eleven wins each. In the play-offs the Rippon rink was in top form and won decisively from the strong Ledieu rink. Personnel of the rink: M. McGrath, F. Aboussafy, A. Cornez and W. L. Rippon, skip.

The Merchants Cup was won on Tuesday evening by the Kerr rink which played off against the Emmerson rink which had finished in the first place tie with Kerr with nine wins each in the second section of the league play-offs. Personnel of the Kerr rink: H. Maslen, W. Gate, G. Jenkins and J. Kerr, skip.

The curling banquet will be held in the Grand Union hotel at 7:30 Friday evening. During the season the would be curlers on President Andy Dow's side had the audacity to challenge the rinks representing vice-president George Jenkins. Naturally they received a drubbing and in addition they will foot the bill when the vice-president's side sits down to a sumptuous supper tomorrow night.

President Andy Dow is preparing a detailed report on plans for moving the curling arena to its new location in the tourist park this summer. It is expected his report will result in considerable discussion and all curlers are requested to attend and take part in the discussion.

In addition to reports there will be an entertainment program which is being drafted by Art Fraser and will include local artists.

Care Of Chicks

Useful Information Regarding The Methods To Be Used To Avoid Losses

More chicks than ever were hatched in Canada in 1943, but far too many of them never lived to lay eggs or to be sold as poultry meat. Many of these deaths could have been avoided.

No matter how vigorous and healthy a newly hatched chick may be, if it is stunted or weakened in the early days of its life it will be a losing proposition in the end. Careless feeding, careless brooding—these are the kind of things which set a chick off to a bad start.

How can a farmer avoid these losses? Good housing will help. A weatherproof building built to allow plenty of sunlight and fresh air and a reliable heating unit with the best fuel obtainable will keep the chicks comfortable and the operator not too busy.

As to feeding, there's no economy in feeding cheap and inferior rations. Until it gets out on range, the chick depends entirely on the feed it is given in the brooder. For this reason, the starter feed should be carefully prepared, containing all the elements necessary to a growing chick.

There is little cause for worry if the chicks come from a reliable source, are warmly housed in sanitary surroundings, and are given fresh water and plenty of suitable feed. Nature will take care of the rest.

But once a chick is chilled or inadequately fed, it may never recover sufficiently to be profitable. And late replacements never equal an earlier hatched chick.

For Hospital Work

St. John's Ambulance Brigade From Canada Arrives In Britain

The first contingent of St. John Ambulance Brigade officers from Canada to serve overseas, has arrived in Britain.

The women, who come from every part of the Dominion, are all specialists who will study their own particular phase of work while in the British Isles.

Mrs. Thomas Gilmour of Toronto, Canadian superintendent-in-chief of the brigade, who wears the insignia of a brigadier in her grey uniform, said on her arrival: "This is an information-gathering group." More large parties are expected later to do hospital work, occupational therapy and study post-war rehabilitation, as well as relief in re-occupied European countries.

Hospital work and cadet work of the organization will be studied by Ruth Mackenzie of Sarnia, Ont.

6-Pounder Anti-Tank Gun

Indicative of the versatility of the infantry, and the manner in which they adapt weapons from almost every branch of the service to their own advantage, is their use of the deadly, six-pounder anti-tank gun. Mobile to the extreme, the weapon is generally towed behind a light truck. In difficult terrain, it is light enough to be man-handled into position by its five-man crew. With a long, effective range, the gun can be set up in a matter of seconds, and pours its deadly armor-piercing shells into the vitals of the enemy's lumbering mobile units. The projectile, weighing but six pounds, punches a small round hole in the enemy armor and ricochets inside with a devastating effect. If gun supplies are hit, the tank will go up in flames. The number of rounds that can be fired by a trained gun crew in a minute reaches almost rapid-fire speed.

Escort Carriers

Have Made Catapults For Protection Of Merchant Ships Unnecessary

Fitting aircraft catapults to merchantmen to provide protection from air attack has been discontinued because so many escort carriers have been added to the Royal Navy, it has been disclosed. In the early days of the war fleet air arm pilots were catapulted from merchantmen and after engaging enemy aircraft had to crash in the sea if no land was near.

Churchill Prefers Ringing Of Bells To Roar Of Guns

Prime Minister Churchill prefers the ringing of bells as a victory salute, rather than the roar of guns. To the proposal by Capt. Leonard F. Fluegge, Conservative, that cannon be sounded to commemorate major military successes, Mr. Churchill said:

"Personally, I favor bells. We are likely to hear quite enough of guns anyway."

MEDICAL CARE IN RUSSIA

Each large enterprise in the Soviet Union (with 250 or more workers) has a health centre on its premises at which workers and their families receive medical service. To care for both the day and night shifts, this health centre functions as a rule on a round-the-clock basis. The health centres, often termed polyclinics, are engaged not only in treatment but also in sickness and accident prevention through inspection and education. . . . Those enterprises which are in the vicinity of large hospitals usually limit their services to routine and emergency work; then the hospital clinics become the centres for complete service to the workers of these plants. Enterprises with fewer than 250 workers will often make joint use of a polyclinic in their immediate neighborhood. Some 7,600 factory health stations had been established by 1940. —From "Soviet Health Care in Peace and War", by Rose Maurer.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

MARCH 19

JESUS CRUCIFIED

Golden text: He was wounded for our iniquities; he was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed. Isaiah 53:5. Lesson: Mark 15:21-47. Devotional Reading: Isaiah 53:4-12.

Explanations and Comments
Simon's Part, Mark 15:21. They to whom Pilate had handed over Jesus to be crucified, compelled Simon of Cyrene to bear his cross. Simon was a native of Cyrene, in Northern Africa, perhaps a colored man; a man of some importance because the father of two sons that are mentioned by name. Against his will he was compelled to carry the cross which Jesus was too weak to bear (Mt. 27:32). With us a youth is thought of as the son of his father, rather than the man as father of the son. Kennedy Williamson asks these questions: "May not this mean that the sons of Simon of Cyrene were known to the early Christian Church; so well known indeed that it was actually of interest to the folk for whom Mark was writing that Simon was his father? Had Simon brought up his boys so well in the faith that they became stalwarts in the Church, workers of such prominence that he was now thought of as the father of his now distinguished sons?"

The Crucifixion, Mark 15:22-27. The place of the crucifixion was called in Hebrew Golgotha (in Latin, Calvary), a word meaning "The place of a skull," so named from the shape of the mound. To stupefy Jesus and so lessen his pain he was offered wine mingled with myrrh, but he refused it. It was the third hour, 9 a.m., when the soldiers crucified him, and then they sat calmly down to divide his garments among them, casting lots for them.

It was customary to have the crime of the malefactor inscribed on a piece of wood and carried before him to the place of execution, then fastened to his cross. The offense ascribed to Jesus, The King of the Jews, was inscribed and fastened to his cross above his head. From John 19:20 we learn that it was written in three languages, Hebrew, Latin and Greek. On either side of Jesus a robber (malefactor, Luke calls him) was crucified.

The Death, Mark 15:33-39. From noon till three o'clock there was darkness over the whole land, due to the sun's light failing, Luke 23:45. This darkness may have been but of the ordinary course of nature, or such intense darkness as is sometimes experienced in a storm. It could not have been an eclipse, as it was the Passover season and full moon. Another explanation given is that "it was a symbolic way of saying what a tragic time it was for those who loved Jesus, just waiting, while he suffered, for the end."

Muscular tension is believed to be one of the major causes of light sleeping.

Banking Simplified

Japan Has Hit On Brilliant Idea To Overcome Labor Shortage

Owing to the acute manpower shortage in that country, Japan has already moved to simplify bookkeeping in Japanese banks. The first step, already taken, was to stop paying or crediting interest on any deposit. The next move is to stop all withdrawals of deposits.

This, it is believed, will save more time than refusing deposits, because it is easy to take in money, particularly when it is not necessary to credit it. Then when no interest has to be paid and no money is allowed to be withdrawn, no bookkeeping of any kind will be necessary. Simple, isn't it?

The Gurkhas are about the toughest fighters in the world, as the Japs in Burma are now finding out. The British discovered it early in the last century, when they attempted to conquer Nepal. GARDEN NOTES

To Relieve Strain

This year with the war in a critical phase, gardens and gardening are needed more than ever. Not only are they needed for providing essential food, but also as a useful and pleasant recreation open to every citizen of the Dominion. In the spring one turns naturally to gardening. Digging in the soil, sowing seeds and watching plants develop provides a welcome and needed change when tension was never greater, and when many of our normal recreations may be no longer possible.

Hardy and Overwise
Roughly, vegetables and flowers naturally divide themselves into three degrees of hardiness.

In vegetables one can hardly plant such things as peas too early, because they are a cool weather crop and must make their growth before the days become too hot. Also in the hardy line are spinach, lettuce, radish, beets, carrots and parsnips, swiss chard, etc. Under semi-hardy, there will be beans, potatoes, corn, cabbage, etc. A very slight frost will not kill some of these but it will certainly set them back. As a matter of fact, with a few exceptions, there is little gained in planting these while there is still danger of serious frost and the soil is cold. And, of course, with warm weather things like melons, squash, tomatoes and cucumbers, one is risking certain disaster by planting before danger from frost has passed.

Flower Families

In flowers, certain things that would normally seed themselves and come up unasked every spring can be sown just as soon as possible. This would cover such very hardy things as alyssum, hollyhocks, marigolds, etc. Sweet peas also should be put in this category, although they will not stand the winter except in some of the very mildest parts of Canada. At the other end of the line will be the very tender plants like dahlias, gladioli and cannas. These will not stand frost. Any good Canadian seed catalogue, of course, will advise in detail on these points.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

"The Blast-Out"

LESLIE B. LUECK

Sheriff Matt Scott and his deputy, Pete Connelly, lounging in front of the county jail, weren't especially enjoying the shade. "I still say I'm right to lock up every bum that drifts through Keyport!" the sheriff growled beligerently.

"You're a hard man," insisted the deputy. "Everybody says so. You even bully your daughter."

"Leave Diana out of this!" Scott roared. He rose from the bench and went inside. Pete could hear his heavy steps halting in front of the kids' cell. Scott addressed the prisoner: "Are you willing to talk, Hale?" There was dead silence from the cell.

Pete almost jumped at the soft rustle of skirts beside him. Diana Scott bent her bright blond head close to Pete's ear and whispered, "I didn't dare tell Dad, but Terry Hale and I met while we were at State University. Terry was on his way to a city where he has a job waiting for him."

She stepped his question with a warning look. "You see," she gasped, "we're engaged! We were going to run away—elope!"

Pete whooped under his breath. "Hallelujah! Say I was beginning to think you were going to let your dad railroad you into marrying that oak, George Ott!"

Diana crimsoned enchantingly. Her violet eyes were starry. "Dad's all right—but this is love. Pete, wish us luck."

Some of her exhilaration died when she stepped into the jail. She had to help get Terry out, somehow! Aloud she coaxed softly. "Oh, why don't you let him go, Dad? He's done nothing wrong."

The prisoner, brown arms bulging through a torn shirt, gazed at her hungrily. Diana's heart skipped long beats. But Hale's voice was cool. "I guess the sheriff won't let me go until I tell him my home town so he can check up on me."

Diana tried to control her excitement. "That should be simple."

"I—can't tell," muttered the prisoner.

Sheriff Scott sneered. "You probably broke the law there. I've sent your finger prints and description to the local F.B.I. office." He wheeled on Diana. "Come along; we're going home."

But as her father stamped down the corridor, Diana managed to thrust a note through the bars and received one in exchange. . . .

Sheriff Scott watched his daughter closely as she moved about the kitchen preparing their evening meal. "Diana," he ordered brusquely, "I forbid you to come around to the jail again. I don't like to have you speak to a common bum."

She dropped a frying pan. "But he's not a bum!" Scott ignored that. Diana's knuckles whitened at a clumsy step on the porch. Every night for the past month that hated footstep had come at exactly seven. And every night she had to endure the same fantastic ritual that was about to take place.

"Come in, George!" bellowed Sheriff Scott heartily, as the door opened. "Diana's just settin' supper."

George was thick-set, ape-like. Dutifully Diana submitted to his kiss, quickly turning one autumn-smooth cheek. George always stayed for the evening meal. He made strange noises swallowing food; black eyes never leaving her. Afterwards, Connelly, who boarded with the Scotts, went into the living room for his pipe and found Diana waiting, finger on lips, a note in her hand. "Don't open it until morning," she whispered. Then she and George went off to the movies.

"Matt," growled Connelly, "George is too old for Diana. He's thirty. She goes around with him because you order her to."

The sheriff nodded. "George owns a fine farm. She'll have everything she wants. Her mother made me promise to see that she got a good man."

Connelly grained. It was nearly ten o'clock. "Diana ought to be getting home soon," the sheriff said. He stretched. "Say, Pete, that tramp asked for a deck of cards today. He's probably a gambler."

Next morning, Sheriff Scott tore into Connelly's room, wild-eyed. He shook Connelly awake. "Diana hasn't been home all night!" he shouted. "I phoned George. He says he gripped her home at nine o'clock! He gripped

"Hold on," said Connelly. "I ain't been out of my room. You got the keys to the kids' cell. They're locked in your office safe. Even I don't know the combination."

"We're going to the jail," Scott said grimly.

Together they climbed in the sheriff's car, sped across town. At the jail Scott's worst fears were realized. The prisoner's cell door was wide open. Its lock was shattered.

"My gosh!" breathed Connelly. "It was blasted off. Look—he used blankets to muffle the explosion! Something crinkled in his shirt pocket and he remembered Diana's note. 'She told me not to open this until now,' Connelly muttered guiltily."

"Read it, man!" Scott yelled.

Pioneer In Plastics

Thirty-Five Years Ago Bakelite Brought Honor To Inventor

A generation has grown up to look on bakelite with no more curiosity than their forefathers looked on glass, yet this product, among the earliest of coal-tar chemical plastics, was sufficiently remarkable 35 years ago to bring honor to its inventor. In fact, it did more for Dr. Leo H. Baekeland, whose name is less familiar to the youngsters of today than are some of his inventions, was able to advance from the production of bakelite to the development of other valuable materials fashioned synthetically from chemicals and used in peace and war in combination with wood and countless other natural substances and manufactured products to make stronger, lighter airplanes, household goods and electrical instruments. The scholarship which originally brought Dr. Baekeland to America from Belgium at 26 has had unusual consequences, the importance of which cannot be measured by the numerous honors that came to the chemist in his long and useful lifetime in America—New York Sun.

Grateful To Canada

People In Britain Appreciate Food-stuffs That Have Been Sent

The women of Britain with whom Miss Mary-Elta MacPherson, managing editor of Chateleine, came in contact during a two-months visit to the British Isles are keenly interested in all things Canadian, she told the Advertising and Sales Executives' Club of Montreal. They are very grateful for the foodstuffs that Canada has been sending over to help them maintain a standard of living that enabled them to do their full part in the war. That they were doing this there was no doubt—women were doing the hardest kinds of jobs with grim determination, and Miss MacPherson said it was a wonderful privilege to have the opportunity of meeting them and seeing for herself the things of which she had heard.

"There is no war weariness in Britain," she declared, "but there is a tremendously sturdy fighting spirit among the civilians as well as in the services, an indomitable quality that the ordinary people in Britain, who are willing to do anything as long as they think there is fair play."

Miss MacPherson spoke about the humor of the British women workers, which persisted despite the blackout and the curtailment of social life, and then described the high place Canadians have in their esteem.

"Any Canadian over there can feel intensely proud about being a Canadian," she remarked. The speaker mentioned that the British people were particularly grateful to Canada for sending over tinned salmon, and they were greatly interested in the fact that young women could get university education on the same footing as men in Canada. Miss MacPherson contrasted the life of the British working classes with those of this country, remarking that no provision had been made for garages in 50,000 new houses that had been built. People over there were surprised, she said, that in Canada many workers of this class would have family cars. She told her audience of some of the ingenious devices in English homes for utilizing the heat from the living room fireplaces, hot water being piped through to the boiler in the kitchen, and even to the kitchen ovens for baking—Montreal Star.

Grain Spoilage

Take Proper Methods To Protect Farm Stored Grain

In order to help Western farmers avoid losses in their farm-stored grain the Division of Entomology, Science Service, Dominion Department of Agriculture, has distributed a sheet of information on the subject. At the same time, a mimeographed circular has been sent to elevator operators, laboratories, and other officials dealing with the storage of grain.

Most spoilage arises from tough grain, with its accompaniment of insects, mites, moulds, and heating. Tough grain may result from unfavourable harvesting conditions. Leaks, seepage, green weed seeds, condensation, and lack of ventilation may cause dry sound grain to become tough in a few months. Tough grain favours the rapid growth and breeding of mites, insects, moulds, and heating. These processes proceed even in the coldest weather because of the insulation provided by the grain. Transferring and cleaning grain in cold weather lowers the temperature of the grain, reduces pest activity, and prevents heating.

Farmers are advised to examine the grain now, turn it in cold weather to prevent warm weather losses, examine grain stocks every two weeks, transfer tough or infested grain in cold weather to a clean granary, provide adequate ventilation, market grain whenever possible, consult the elevator agent about over-delivery privileges and use them. These are some of the suggestions given in the sheet. Further information may be obtained from the local elevator agent, or write to the nearest Entomological Laboratory (at Brandon, Man.; Saskatoon, Sask.; and Lethbridge, Alta.); or to the Provincial Department of Agriculture concerned—at Winnipeg for Manitoba, Regina for Saskatchewan, or Edmonton for Alberta.

A Man-Sized Job

Being Done On Northumberland Farm By Young English Girl

A 16-year-old English girl, Dulcie Scott, is running an 80-acre Northumberland farm that has a herd of 19 dairy cattle, seven calves, two horses, two pigs, and 50 chickens. Her assistant is a 19-year-old Land Army girl, who had lived in the city all her life. Here is Dulcie Scott's timetable: Up at 4:30 a.m., horses fed, barns cleaned, cows fed and milked, milk delivered to crossroads for pick-up, calves, pigs and poultry fed before breakfast at 9 a.m. After that, said Dulcie, "the day's work begins," which includes ploughing, cleaning milking machines, taking animals and produce to market and other routine farm chores, repeating the morning's schedule at 3 p.m.

Norsemen Plane

Appeared In The Movie "Captain Of The Clouds"

Dominion Skyways purchased the first Norseman plane in January, 1936, and it is still in operation, flying from CFA's Semtex base, Canadians saw the "plane in the movie 'Captain of the Clouds'." The star, James Cagney, flew it in the movies.

It was not long before almost every bush operator was flying or planning to fly a Norseman. As Noorduyn had hoped, they found it ideal for the tough, every-day heating it had to take.

It was the Bernt Balchen incident that resulted in the Norseman getting the military use it deserved. The U.S. bought several of them and the pilots who flew Norsemen praised them mightily.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

DANGEROUS PRACTICE

Firing a gun within the town limits is a dangerous practice. It is a practice that should be stamped out at the outset and not after some person has been wounded either seriously or fatally.

A few years ago one of our young men met death from a gun fired by some unknown person, last year a bullet sped through a window barely missing a lady who sat at a nearby table, a year ago New Year's one of the street lights on Fourth street was smacked by bullets, this week an innocent dog is shot in its tracks. Steps should be taken now to find the guilty parties, not a casual but a spirited investigation and one that will get results. A gun is too dangerous a weapon to be fired inside the town limits with youngsters and adults to be found everywhere and therefore probably right in the path of a stray bullet.

KING YIELDS TO PRESSURE

Prime Minister Mackenzie King, a stubborn man if there ever was one, has at last seen the error of his ways and upon heavy pressure from his cabinet colleagues, government supporters and organizations throughout the Dominion has finally lifted federal restrictions on beer. He still however maintains a firm grip over spirits and wine.

For a year and a half he has watched his ill-advised legislation result in young girls and women line-up in front of liquor stores for monthly quotas. He has watched the sale of beer hit new heights simply because the public craved something which was being partly denied to it. Probably the deciding factor in his yielding to pressure was the fact that public opinion was swinging sharply against the Liberal party which he heads.

It is hoped that the provinces will handle the beer problem with more sanity.

SOCIAL SECURITY IS NOT SOMETHING FOR NOTHING (Red Shield Report)

Many erroneous ideas get into print and occur in discussions of the planning for Social Security which indicate a total misunderstanding of the fundamental basis on which all such planning is built.

The purpose of the various social security plans, including those of Beveridge, Marsh, Whitton, and others, is not merely to provide for the less privileged of the people something they have never earned or deserved, or something they have at sometime forfeited by want of initiative, lack of energy, or sheer wanton recklessness in providing for a rainy day, it is an effort to make a provision for the under-privileged which has long been seen as one of the tragic failures of the present economic system.

Nature has provided abundant food, clothing, minerals and labor has been abundantly furnished to feed, clothe and provide a sufficient living for all the people, but many are denied by circumstances, birth, ability and education the qualifications which make the acquisition of wealth possible. Some have not, and do not want, to seek a place in the struggle for wealth.

Thousands of these are people of quality, superior intellect and choice spirit. Literature, Art, Music, Labor and Religion have never competed equally or with success in a commercial age. Such are the indispensables in a better world. Social Security will provide the minimum by right which a commercialized world so far has failed to give to those who have been unable to secure a competence and yet render a service we cannot do without.

A man who has labored all his life, who, by the fact of family responsibility, loss of his savings, heavy taxes, misfortune or ill-health of himself or one of his family, is impoverished in old age, is not getting something for nothing when the state gives him an old age pension. He is rightly recognized as a valued creator of wealth who has earned, at least, a living for his few remaining days.

The state does no more for him than any self-respecting firm or corporation gladly recognizes as its duty to its old and honored employees.

But Social Security is more than a hand-out to the under-privileged, it is also security for the nation; security of our unity, and our economic system. It is security from unsatisfactory and impossible conditions in which under-privileged poverty and harmful undernourishment prevails. It is security from fly-by-night political schemes and economic cure-alls which promise Utopia by way of national havoc.

Is it financially possible? Indubitably! Unlike war, Social Security would not involve the firing of wealth into hell and destruction, but the addition of wealth to the purchasing power of the people who would spend every cent of it on goods from farm and factory, which otherwise would not find a market.

This is the way to the genius of distribution which has flagrantly lagged behind the genius of production in the past.

bride was tastefully gowned in a navy blue suit with corsage of roses. She was attended by Mrs. W. McKay of Blairmore, who chose for the occasion a mid-blue ensemble. Mr. J. Gelinas was groomsmen. Rev. G. A. Ketyls, B.A., officiated.

JAMARCHUK — GOLIA

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the United church on Saturday, Feb. 11, when Julia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Golia, of Brocket, became the bride of Joe Jamarchuk, of Coleman. Rev. G. A. Ketyls conducted the service.

The bride, entering the church on the arm of her father to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, was dressed in a white sheer gown with a long tulle veil held together by a wreath of white blossoms. She carried a bouquet of roses and callalilies. Upon entering the church, flower girls Leona Klivinsky and Irene Zinook who wore long sheer dresses with ruffled bottoms and matching wreaths, held the bridal veil. They carried small bouquets of daffodils. Following the flower-girls were pageboys Johnny Klivinsky and Lawrence Golia.

Attending the bride were Jenny Trots, who chose a blue sheer gown, Emily McNovitch, a blue net over taffeta gown, Rose Palmarchuk, of Lethbridge, who chose a blue taffeta, and Louise Aldoff, a pink net over taffeta. Carrying bouquets of daffodils and carnations they wore flower coronets in their hair.

Attending the groom were Mario Marsello, Nicola Golia, Cpl. William Golia and John Ondrus. The matron of honor, Mrs. George Zinook, aunt of the groom wore a beige dress with matching accessories.

During the signing of the Register, Mrs. A. Burchuk, of Lethbridge, sister of the bride, sang "Give Me Thy Heart".

A reception was held at the home of the groom's mother, Mrs. B. Klivinsky, where only immediate relatives and friends were present. The happy young couple will take up residence in Coleman where the groom is employed.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. W. Golia, Brocket; Mr. and Mrs. W. Mondie, Brocket; Mr. and Mrs. Hall, Shaunnessy; Mr. and Mrs. B. Badnaruk, Maybude; Mr. and Mrs. Orich and daughters Lena and Mary, Brocket; Mr. and Mrs. M. Golia, Lethbridge; Mr. and Mrs. A. Burchuk, Lethbridge; Mr. Nick Vidmidichuk, Lethbridge; Mr. and Mrs. Komonchuk, Lethbridge; Mrs. F. Palmarchuk, Lethbridge; Mrs. A. Palmarchuk, Lethbridge; Cpl. T. J. Gough, Calgary; and Mr. and Mrs. Nick Bernajski, of Macleod.

International Understanding

DEVELOPMENTS IN SCIENCE, medicine, and mechanics have been greatly accelerated because of the demands of war, and undertakings which in normal times might have taken years, have been completed in weeks or months. In the same way, there has been rapid progress in international co-operation and understanding. Had there been no war, improved means of communication would, in time, have brought the people of all nations into closer contact, but the war has greatly hastened this process. Refugees from Nazi tyranny have come from all parts of Europe to Britain, the United States and Canada, some of them bringing outstanding abilities which have been placed at the disposal of the countries in which they have settled. The presence of these people, many of them members of governments in exile, or of the free fighting forces of occupied countries, has contributed a great deal towards the mutual trust and understanding among nations which is so desirable now and in years to come.

Air Training Plan A Factor

Another factor which has been instrumental in bringing together men from many lands, is the Commonwealth Air Training Plan. Through this project, thousands of young men from Britain, Australia, New Zealand, and other parts of the Empire have travelled widely in Canada, becoming familiar with this Dominion and its people, and at the same time giving us an opportunity to learn much from them of the countries from which they come. This exchange of information and ideas is bound to lay the foundations for firmer bonds of friendship between the people of the nations who are now fighting for a common cause. A writer for the British Ministry of Information, commenting on this subject recently, observed that "the benefits of world war are indeed few enough, but among them must be rated high opportunities for ordinary people of many countries to get to know each other better."

British People Are Hospitable

The war has made Britain a meeting place for people from all the United Nations. At first many found refuge there from German oppression, and later, armed forces from all parts of the Empire, the United States, and the free governments in exile gathered in preparation for attack. It has been observed that English people have had the reputation of being insular, but whether this was true or imaginary, it is not in evidence now, as British hospitality is warmly extended to people from many lands. Numerous clubs and organizations were set up for refugees, where they might meet not only their own countrymen, but people from the other United Nations. For members of the services from all parts of the Commonwealth and the United States, provisions have been made for many forms of entertainment. There are abundant invitations from private homes for these on leave, and in addition educational tours, "leave courses" at Oxford, and many other facilities are offered. In all this there is evidence of great progress in international understanding and co-operation.

Sure Of Victory

Canadian Servicemen Overseas Are Ready For The Fight

Foster Barclay, back in Ottawa after more than three years' service overseas as a Canadian Press war correspondent, said Canadian servicemen have shown that they know how to wield their weapons, and that "wherever you go nowadays" there is high praise for the three "potent" Canadian services.

The men overseas cannot say when the war will end, but they are sure of victory, Barclay said. "They would like to be home, too, but if you were to give them the choice of coming tomorrow or staying to the end, you could bet they would want to continue."

"Even when a soldier is wounded, his first fear is that he may be knocked out for keeps."

TRAVEL BETWEEN BRITAIN AND EIRE HAS BEEN SUSPENDED AS A SAFETY WAR MEASURE

LONDON.—Travel between Britain and Northern Ireland and Eire was suspended for military reasons "of paramount importance" and it was widely reported in London that this restriction was widely reported in restriction was only the first step decided upon by Britain and the United States in a move to isolate neutral Eire.

The order prohibiting all but the most vital travel to and from Ireland followed closely upon the refusal of Prime Minister Eamon de Valera of Eire to oust Axis diplomatic representatives from his country.

In addition it was reported that closing of Eire's border with Northern Ireland was under consideration and that supplies of gasoline, wheat and coal for Eire were to be cut sharply in order to relieve every available ton of Allied shipping for invasion operations.

Most directly affected by the travel restriction were the 4,000 persons who daily cross between Ireland and Britain to work.

The order likewise will block the travel of an estimated 125,000 monthly who make the journey for business or social reasons and whose activities formerly were loosely checked under the old, open regulations.

Just two days after disclosure of the diplomatic exchange between Eire and the United States, the British government announced that effective immediately, "no more permits or visas for travel between the two islands will be granted except for business or work of national importance."

The statement said:

"The government is confident the people will understand that military considerations which require the imposition of these restrictions are at present of paramount importance and will accept them and the hardships necessarily entailed with goodwill as part of their contribution to the supreme effort of the war that is to come."

"The restrictions will be removed as soon as military considerations permit, and persons who are compelled to postpone their visits home will be given an opportunity of making the journey as soon as may be possible after the restrictions are lifted."

THE ADDITION OF SEVERAL NEW SHIPS WILL INCREASE THE STRENGTH OF CANADIAN NAVY

OTTAWA.—Presenting his $410,000,000 estimate to the commons, Navy Minister Macdonald reviewed a wide range of navy activity on the seven seas, told of a successful fight against the U-boat and spoke of a "big ship" navy in prospect.

Touching all phases of naval effort, Mr. Macdonald spoke of acquisition of two cruisers, eight modern-type destroyers and the manning of two aircraft carriers and added: "This will add to the strength and effectiveness of the Canadian navy."

His comment that these additions would give Canadians experience in handling larger ships after having served in a small ship navy was taken to mean a new offensive program for a navy that has been waging an increasingly successful defensive operation in protecting convoys carrying supplies to the battle fronts.

Other than adding that Canada would operate the carriers with her own officers and ratings with Britain supplying planes and air personnel, Mr. Macdonald did not elaborate. However, a recent despatch from Vancouver reported at least one of the carriers, in command of Capt. Horatio Nelson Lay, nephew of Prime Minister Mackenzie King, already had left for a battle zone.

His comprehensive review included this information:

1. The estimated expenditure for this year of $410,000,000 is about the same as was spent last year, when $489,000,000 was budgeted.

2. Personnel will be enlisted at the rate of 1,000 a month—the same as last year.

CHECK DOUKHOBORES

Regulations Are To Be Tightened In British Columbia

OTTAWA.—Labor Minister Mitchell said in the commons that National Resources Mobilization Act regulations are being tightened up in respect to Doukhobors in British Columbia and Royal Canadian Mounted Police and British Columbia provincial police now are conducting an investigation in respect to the matter.

Mr. Mitchell, replying to W. K. Esling (P.C.-Kootenay West), said that in a general way the Doukhobors in Saskatchewan were complying with mobilization regulations. Most of them took the position of conscientious objectors and went to alternative service employment.

"In British Columbia the situation is not as good as in Saskatchewan," said Mr. Mitchell.

CHEESE RATION CUT

Two Ounces Weekly Is The New Allowance For British People

LONDON.—Britain's cheese ration will be cut from three to two ounces weekly April 2 but the two-ounce ration will remain unchanged and the milk and canned goods ration will be boosted, Food Minister J. J. Llewellyn announced.

The food minister told a press conference the two ounce weekly butter ration was not in danger. The two pints weekly milk ration will be boosted by a half-pint and the increase in the canned goods ration will be effected by giving 24 points a month instead of 20 for canned goods, dried fruit and other goods.

Increase in the canned food ration was possible because of the larger supplies of canned meat and fish available, the minister said.

SEAMEN RESCUED

Sailors Brought To Eastern Port After A Trying Experience

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT.—Rescued after clinging 33 hours to the after-section of a torpedo-sundered ship in a Atlantic blizzard, 61 Allied seamen have been brought to this port aboard a rescue vessel.

Besides the sailors landed here 11 other survivors of the torpedoed merchant vessel have been taken to an American port by a cargo ship which picked them off life-rats and boats.

WILL GET AWARD

Men Captured At Dunkirk To Receive The 1939-43 Star

LONDON.—Officers and men captured at Dunkirk in May, 1940, will receive on repatriation the 1939-43 star although their operation service was less than the required six months.

War Secretary Sir James Grigg said in a written reply to a House of Commons questioner.

The announcement about Dunkirk prisoners was the first indication they would receive it but a white paper giving details of the award in August said those evacuated from Norway in the spring of 1940 were eligible although serving much less than six months.

SOME BRITISH AND AMERICAN WARSHIPS MAY BE ASSIGNED TO RUSSIA FOR WARTIME USE

WASHINGTON.—Further news conference discussion of the Italian fleet situation by President Roosevelt left observers more convinced than ever that some British and American warships, rather than Italian units, probably will be assigned to the Russian navy for wartime use.

The president, questioned about the matter, refused to go into detail. But he said his statement of March 3 about giving the Russians part of the Italian fleet—or its equivalent—was correct, what Prime Minister Winston Churchill said was correct; and there was no controversy on the issue.

Roosevelt said that in reporting his original statement some people left out key words. Under questioning, he agreed that the "key" words in his statement were where he said that consideration was being given to putting roughly one-third of the Italian fleet or its equivalent at the wartime use of the Soviet Union.

Roosevelt was asked about reports that the Italian fleet would remain in the Mediterranean and Russia.

would get her equivalent share of the Italian tonnage in British and American war vessels. He replied that anything said on this subject would violate military security, so he could not discuss disposition of particular ships.

Churchill said in the House of Commons that arrangements for wartime use of the Italian fleet were being discussed, but the question of ultimate disposition of that fleet might await disposition until after the war. Churchill also said that "no change is contemplated in the arrangements with the Italian naval authorities under which the Italian ships and their crews take part in the common struggle against the enemy in the theatres where they now operate."

NAPLES.—Premier Pietro Badoglio expressed gratification at Prime Minister Churchill's statement on disposition of the Italian fleet. A spokesman for Badoglio's government said "the incident is closed."

Previously Badoglio had expressed distress at reports there were plans to divide the Italian fleet among Britain, the United States and Russia.

Will Discuss Air Services Over Atlantic

OTTAWA.—The question of future air services over the Atlantic will occupy an important place on the agenda of the four-power aviation discussions to be held in Washington later this month. Canada will participate in the conference with the United States, Britain and Russia. Inclusion of Canada is regarded as recognition of this country's strategic position in world aviation.

The Washington discussions will merely carry forward another step discussions that have already been underway both in London and Washington. In some areas of the world, the future prospect is becoming clear. In the north Atlantic air services will be mainly British, American and Canadian. It is expected that Canada and Britain will each operate a trans-Atlantic service, agreeing on a schedule of flights. Whether the United States government will agree to a proportionate number of flights is not yet clear. But if agreement is reached, it would likely be on a formula of 2-2-4 for Canada, Britain and United States.

Elsewhere, the picture is different. United States companies will undoubtedly operate south Atlantic air services, and British companies will also expect to operate there. Inside Europe, no forecast of the situation can be made at this stage, but obviously the predominant air powers will be Britain and Russia, and it is likely that they will dominate the inter-city air services around Europe.

Across the Pacific, Canada will likely hold one route which may in some portions overlap with services of American companies. Trans-Canada Air Lines may fly the north-eastern route to China, Japan, Singapore. Whether direct trans-Pacific service to Hawaii and stepping stone islands of the South Seas to Australia will be undertaken by Canadian interests is a matter of speculation. The American air transport command has developed this into a fully equipped route. If future aviation arrangements are reached by a process of bargaining, Canada's control of northern Arctic routes may become the chief bargaining power held by any British country in negotiating with the Americans for Pacific service.

From Europe to Asia there is no doubt that British overseas airways, or other British companies, will operate direct services straight through the Middle East to India, Singapore and Australia. This is a route in which the Netherlands is also interested and will probably obtain recognition.

FLEEING FROM RED ARMY
BERNE.—The latest advances by the Russian army have led to a new flight from Bucovina province of Rumanians who forced their way on trains despite government orders against travel, it was reported.

More than 86,000 casualties were inflicted on the Germans and Italians when the British Eighth Army drove the enemy out of Egypt and Libya.

"If it hadn't been for the
we wouldn't be alive now!"

"It was the Red Cross parcels that gave us courage..."

"I don't know what we would have done without Red Cross parcels"

HERE is evidence that cannot be denied... unsolicited praise for Red Cross straight from the hearts of repatriated war prisoners, men who have been through it and know from first hand experience just what it is all about.

Thousands of their comrades are still in enemy hands. Help Red Cross bring each one of them back with the same wonderful story to tell, a story of Red Cross light in the very shadow of death.

Over 39% of the money you give is earmarked for prisoners of war. Give generously that this amount will swell to meet the growing need. What we've done is small to what we've yet to do!
